

The climate of Malaga is one of the best you can find in Spain. The sun is more than guaranteed almost all year round in this Andalusian province, which is embellished by the Mediterranean Sea. In addition to its excellent weather, Malaga has something that will get you totally captivated.

In our walk along the capital of Costa del Sol, I discovered Calle Larios, the most emblematic street of the city. It is a lovely place where you can walk leisurely looking at the windows of the shops on both sides.

The next day after our arrival, we went to the Malaga Cathedral; a magnificent place with a Renaissance style. In its interior you will be able to discover some spectacular altars. It has a small Arab style garden.

On Saturday, we got to know the Alcazaba of Malaga; a fortification that has beautiful and intimate gardens. It also has a museum where you can admire Arabic and Castilian remains.

In the afternoon, we saw a panoramic view of the city at Mirador de Gibralfaro. When you get here, do not hesitate to go see Malaga's sunset at this incredible place.

How can I not go to the beach on a Sunday?
There is nothing more popular in Malaga than its amazing beaches. We took a swim in the Malagueta Beach, where good weather and cool activities are assured.

We ended the day at Restaurante Amador; ate a spectacular food and were delighted by the awesome view of the city.
